

WILLIAMS TO SHOWCASE MODEL RANGE AT FORT LAUDERDALE

Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show, 5th – 9th November 2015

Bahia Mar Land Display 1044–1045

Williams Jet Tenders, the world's leading jet tender manufacturer, will be showcasing models from its exciting range at this year's Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show. On display will be one of the brand's latest models, the Sportjet 460, along with the newly upgraded Dieseljet 505 and Turbojet 285, 325 and 385 models.

Held each year in what is considered to be the Yachting Capital of the World, the 56th Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show will see manufacturers and designers come together to exhibit the best of the luxury yachting sector. The models on the Williams stand highlight recent major investment into the brand's 11-strong range, with the launch of the new Sportjet range and significant updates made to both the Dieseljet and Turbojet ranges to make these highly popular models even more versatile, practical and stylish.

Mathew Hornsby, Sales Director at Williams Jet Tenders, commented: "The Fort Lauderdale International Boat Show is a very important show for us as we have a strong presence in the US market. We look forward to welcoming visitors to our stand and talking them through our latest models and the exciting upgrades we have made across the range."

Williams Jet Tenders, with its Sportjet, Turbojet and Dieseljet ranges, is recognised as the world's leading manufacturer of jet-powered yacht tenders. The company has developed strong relationships with leading yacht manufacturers including Princess, Sunseeker, Fairline, Azimut Benetti, Monte Carlo Yachts, Hanse, Oyster, Ferretti and Jeanneau – with many models being specifically designed to accommodate a Williams tender.
